Kimberly Yourick is a contemporary landscape oil painter in the Washington, DC area. She holds a BFA from Washington University in St. Louis. Kimberly is a favorite artist and instructor at the Yellow Barn Studio, Glen Echo, MD. Her work shifts the traditional notion of plein air painting by pursuing color intensity that reaches beyond representational subject matter. The color vibration and use of light become the focus of the work so that the viewer experiences the transcendence, and joyfulness of a beautiful vision. She has a special interest in teaching art and developing a supportive art community for both youth and adults. Kimberly has exhibited in local, national, and international exhibits.
